An Appropriate and Timely Remedy.

CAMP NEAR PORT ROYAL, Caroline Co., Va., Dec. 27, 1862.]

MR. EDITOR: Having been solicited repeatedly by my friends to correspond with the Bulletin that they may always be posted with news from the 13th N. C. Regt. which they insist will furnish much satisfaction both to them and others in the vicinity of Charlotte, I propose, if it meets with your approbation, to send for publication each week, a short account of the location and circumstances in general concerning the Regiment, and especially Company B.

The 13th was in the late battle at Fredericksburg, was two days on the front line in support of a battery and sustained a loss of 11-8 killed and 33 wounded.

One (private) was killed in Company B, vis. L. W. McDaniel.

On Tuesday after the battle, we moved down the river within seven miles of Port Royal, where we have since been encamped.

We do picket duty on the west bank of the Rappahannock, while the enemy's pickets occupy the opposite side.

The operations of the rebels and another party show a disposition to harm the other, though they are within good musket range.

Charlotte has come and gone and we yet lie on the cold ground without shelter.

Since the recent battles, vacant offices are being supplied. In Company B, by appointment, Sergt. Edward Smith has been raised to the office of 2d Lieutenant.

The health of the regiment is as good as could be supposed under the circumstances.

No bad cases in camp.

Special Correspondence of the Bulletin.

HEADQUARTERS MECK. RANGERS, Kinston, N. C., Jan. 1, 1863.

MR. EDITOR: Once more I am permitted to rest a few days at this point. Our company has just crossed the river; their destination is within six miles of Camp Alpha, or therabouts, which would be near New Bern.

We have had quite a happy New Year—feasted at Mr. White's expense, on turkey, duck, &c. The &c., as my Lord Coke says, meaneth much, such as is not necessary to mention at this time.

We are all safe and well at this time. We have been close to New Bern, on the opposite side of the river. We swam our horses to day and landed safely on this side. Would like to write a few particulars, but it is too dark to see.

I am, respectively,
R. T. BENNETT, Colonel
Comdg't 14th N. C. Troops,
Dec. 20th, 1862.]

Col. R. T. BENNETT:

At the suggestion of a number of gentlemen of this Regiment, we, the undersigned, respectfully beg leave to inquire whether or not it would be a breach of discipline to express our opinion in a public meeting of the Regiment, in regard to recent resolutions offered in the Legislature of our State, contravening the authority of the Confederate Government.

Respectfully,

W. H. WATKINS,
Jno. W. MCGREGOR,
DAVID C. TILMAN.

Committee.

HEADQUARTERS 14th N. C. TROOPS,
Dec. 20th, 1862.]

Messrs. WATKINS, MCGREGOR, and TILMAN:

Gentlemen:—Your note making enquiry as to the propriety and consistency with disciplines of expressing an opinion respecting the resolutions of our Legislature, is in hand; and I hasten to inform you that the "Articles of War" are not infringing by action in the premises.

I am, respectively,

R. T. BENNETT, Colonel
Comdg't 14th N. C. Troops,
Te W. H. Watkins, J. W. McGregor, D. C. Tilman.

The foregoing information having been received, a meeting, consisting of the different Companies of the Regiment, convened upon the regimental grounds.

On motion of A. A. Waddell, J. W. Tracy was called to preside over the deliberations of the meeting; and P. H. Turner and G. W. Stronach to act as Secretaries.

The Chairman announced the object of the meeting to be an expression of opinion relative to resolutions which have passed the second reading in one House of the General Assembly of North Carolina, which, in spirit and substance, nullify the Conscription Act of the Confederate Congress.

On motion, a committee of the following soldiers, to wit:

W. Bird, Company A; H. J. Berrier, Company B; J. Bennett, Company D; J. M. Whitmire, Company F; C. H. Shanks, Company H; A. Waddell, Company C; J. B. Martin, Company E; J. W. Revel, Company G; H. W. Hunt, Company I; L. N. Kelly, Company K—was appointed to draft, preamble and resolutions.

The committee having retired a short time, returned, reporting the following, all of which were considered satisfactory and adopted by acclamation:

Whereas, It became necessary, in view of the alarming encroachments upon the most cherished and dearest principles of the old Federal Constitution, for the States now composing the Confederate States of America, through their respective capacities, to pass, promulgate and carry into effect ordinances of secession; and whereas, as the Confederate States, for the purpose of mutual protection, did establish a Government, vesting in said trustee its war-making power, the authority to use and support arms for the benefit of the cause we trust: Now, therefore, be it resolved—

1st. That we have unbounded confidence in our Chief Magistrate, Johnson Davis, the Christian Warrior and Statesman.

2d. That the recommendation of the Executive awaiting in the Passage of the Conscription Law, meets our unanimous applause.

3d. That the subjugation of North Carolina from the incursions of the foe are great but will not compare with those of Virginia and other States of the Confederacy.

4th. That the energy which has marked the preparations of the Confederate authorities in resisting the recent invasion of our State, convinces us beyond doubt of the absurdity of apprehensions now manifested by the Legislature of said State.

5th. That the passage of a bill on its second reading by one House of the General Assembly of North Carolina calling for ten thousand men for State defense of those already ordered into the service of the Confederate States, in direct co-operation with the Law of the Confederate Congress, meets with our unanimous condemnation.

6th. That from our distant bivouacs on the Rappahannock, we conjure our fellow citizens of the General Assembly of North Carolina to pause ere we be made to regret this struggle, consecrated in the hearts of our countrymen by so much of our best blood, on account of their precipitate action.

7th. That the energy which has marked the preparations of the Confederate authorities in resisting the recent invasion of our State, convinces us beyond doubt of the absurdity of apprehensions now manifested by the Legislature of said State.
